Introduction

This is the first of two background papers prepared for participants of the Access to Justice Symposium hosted by the Law Society of Upper Canada on October 29, 2013. It briefly describes legal organizations in Ontario and provides examples of their access to justice activities. The purpose is to stimulate discussion among Symposium participants about potential solutions, gaps and opportunities for collaboration. The paper is not intended to be comprehensive; rather it provides a brief “snapshot” and high level overview of access to roles and activities within the legal community.

Efforts to enhance access to justice involve a multitude of legal and non-legal organizations, often working in partnership with each other. The fact that this paper looks at legal organizations should not detract from the many non-legal organizations that play a vital role in legal information, referral, triage and prevention. They include Indian Friendship Centres, immigrant settlement agencies, shelters, violence prevention groups, disability organizations, health and social service providers, cultural and religious bodies, community centres, public libraries, and information and referral services (such as 211 Ontario).

The descriptions of legal organizations and their access to justice activities have been prepared with input from contacts from the organizations. The focus is on Ontario organizations, although some nationally based organizations have been included, especially those doing on the ground work in Ontario. We recognize that there is not always a clear line between a “legal” and “non-legal” organization, especially in the case of community organizations that provide information or education on legal topics. This paper is a draft that will be revised to add, modify or correct information following the Symposium discussions. Apologies to those we may have inadvertently omitted or insufficiently described.

To further this objective, the Law Society established standing committees on Access to Justice and on Equity and Aboriginal Issues and co-sponsored the Ontario Civil Legal Needs research project which laid the groundwork for recent and future initiatives. Throughout 2013, the Law Society has been seeking advice on an enhanced role for itself through the Treasurer's Advisory Group on Access to Justice ("TAG"). Women's Law Association of Ontario (WLAO)

Many associations, such as the examples listed above, serve as a voice for members of the legal profession from specific demographic groups. These associations play an important role in access to justice by helping to ensure that people from the groups have access to a strong cadre of legal professionals who understand their culture, language or specific needs and by advocating on public policy issues to advance legal and social justice.

Activities of such associations typically include:

- Serving as a spokesperson and networking forum for their members
- Promoting public awareness and reform of policies and laws affecting the target populations
- Promoting equal opportunity, legal scholarship, professional excellence, and community involvement
- Offering mentorship for students and practitioners
- Providing seminars, speakers' forums and other educational opportunities

Courts and Tribunals

Court of Appeal for Ontario

The jurisdiction of the Court of Appeal for Ontario includes the consideration of civil and criminal appeals from decisions of Ontario's two trial courts, the Superior Court of Justice and the Ontario Court of Justice. At the Opening of the Courts of Ontario in September 2012, Chief Justice Warren K. Winkler stressed the importance of access to justice in upholding the rule of law. At the Opening in 2013, he said, "There is today an overwhelming consensus that if the justice system as we know it is to survive, it must undergo significant change to provide greater access to justice for the public".

Sample Access to Justice Activities

- Ontario Courts Accessibility Committee which is helping to increase the accessibility of courthouse facilities and proceedings, with membership from all levels of court, the Bar, the Ministry of the Attorney General, and people with disabilities
- Programs initiated with the bar, Pro Bono Law Ontario and Legal Aid Ontario to provide legal services for unrepresented persons during inmate appeals, mental health appeals, civil appeals, and motions
- Self-help packages on the website to guide individuals through the steps to bring an appeal or motion, with links to organizations that might be of assistance
- Chief Justice's Committee on Professionalism which gets lawyers more involved in making the system work smoothly

Superior Court of Justice

The Superior Court of Justice has jurisdiction over criminal, civil and family cases, presiding in fifty-one locations in Ontario. In "Mapping the Way Forward", the Court's 2012 Annual Report, Chief Justice

Heather J. Smith stated, "In each of these three areas of law, the Superior Court remains dedicated to providing meaningful, effective, and timely access to justice".

Prioritizing Children

Chief Justice Smith indicated in her Opening of Courts speeches, in both September 2012 and 2013, that in 2012 the Superior Court embarked on the "Prioritizing Children" initiative, which focussed on improving access to justice for families in crisis and children at risk, particularly in child protection proceedings. The Chief Justice has met with and has received commitments to support this initiative from the Treasurer, the law deans, CBA and OBA representatives, the Children's Lawyer, and legal assistance organizations.

Scheduling Practices

Chief Justice Smith recently announced the 2013 strategic priority for the court. The court has embarked on a full scale internal review of its judicial scheduling practices, to maximize the effectiveness of its judicial resources and available facilities, to provide more timely access to justice, particularly in civil interlocutory proceedings

Reducing Wait Times

The court has begun an initiative for the Greater Toronto Area, to reduce the undue wait times for long motions and long trials, principally in Toronto. The judicial lead for this initiative, Justice Geoffrey Morawetz, will value the Bar's input in resolving this issue.

Technology

To more effectively harness technology to improve access to justice, the Superior Court led two significant initiatives in 2013. First, the court developed its own protocol to allow all parties to easily access copies of the court's digital audio recordings. Second, the court crafted and implemented a court-wide policy that permits the use of electronic devices in the courtroom for parties and their counsel, and for members of the press, because they function as the eyes and ears of the public.

E-Filing

While the court eagerly awaits the technology-based initiatives the Attorney General has planned, the court's judges have proactively joined with the Bar to move towards the kind of accessible "e-filing" system that will ultimately become the backbone for the administration of justice. The thoughtful and detailed standards developed for delivering e-documents in Commercial List and Divisional Court cases will, no doubt, become the standard for the true "e-filing" system of the future.

Ontario Court of Justice

The Ontario Court of Justice presides over adult criminal, youth criminal, family law, child protection, and provincial offence matters. The Ontario Court of Justice is the largest court in the country, with judges and justices of the peace sitting in close to 200 locations throughout Ontario. In her remarks at the Opening of the Courts of Ontario in September 2012, Chief Justice Annemarie E. Bonkalo stated that, "As society evolves, so too must our courts. Whether in family, criminal, youth or provincial offences matters, our Court always seeks opportunities to provide more innovative and accessible service delivery options." During the 2013 Opening, she stressed the Court's focus on access to justice and efforts to modernize the court and demystify the court process.

Administrative Tribunals

Many legal matters in Ontario are resolved through specialized adjudicative tribunals established by provincial or federal legislation. The nature and extent of access to justice activities in the tribunal sector can vary considerably depending on the individual tribunal or cluster of tribunals.

Clustering

- Improving access to justice is one of the goals behind the recent creation of three "clusters" involving seventeen of Ontario's tribunals:

 - Social Justice Tribunals Ontario (SJTO)
 - Safety, Licence Appeals and Standards Tribunals Ontario (SLASTO)
- Common information portals for clusters of tribunals

Governments

Ontario Ministry of the Attorney General (MAG)

The Ministry of the Attorney General's role includes court services to support an independent judiciary, prosecution of offences, conducting civil litigation on behalf of government, services for victims and vulnerable persons, justice policy, and legislative drafting. MAG liaises with other Ontario government ministries on access to justice issues and is responsible for a variety of arms-length agencies and tribunals.

Faculties of Law

Student Legal Aid Societies

Student Legal Aid Services Societies operate out of Ontario's law schools. Under the supervision of full time lawyers, volunteer law students provide legal advice and represent clients in cases involving minor crimes, landlord and tenant disputes, immigration issues and tribunals. Funding and support are provided from the universities and Legal Aid Ontario. Law Schools also collaborate with community legal clinics such as the University of Windsor's Legal Assistance of Windsor program and Osgoode Hall Law School's long-standing partnership with Parkdale Community Legal Services.

Clinical Programs

In addition to regular classroom courses, Ontario's law schools offer clinical programs with an intensive focus on particular areas of law, legal skills or client communities. Clinical programs provide law students with advanced skills and experience through experiential learning. Many clinical programs – including placement at a student legal aid society – focus on vulnerable groups. A recent example is the Disability Law program created by Osgoode Hall Law School in partnership with ARCH Disability Law Centre.

Pro Bono Services

As described earlier, Ontario law students provide volunteer legal services through chapters of Pro Bono Students Canada. Students also volunteer through pro bono law school clinics such as the Ecojustice Clinic at the University of Ottawa.

New Faculty of Law at Lakehead University

The Lakehead University Faculty of Law is Ontario's first new law school in Ontario in forty-four years. Its first class of students began in September, 2013. This law school is committed to improving access to legal services in Northern Ontario and throughout rural Canada – all places where there is a need for lawyers. It will focus on admitting students from towns across the north, as well as throughout the rest of Ontario and rural or small town Canada. It will emphasize access to justice in non-metropolitan communities by preparing graduates to practise in smaller centres and in smaller firms. In addition to the core curriculum, the program will focus on three main areas: Aboriginal Law and issues related to Aboriginal peoples; establishing a law practice in a small centre; and an emphasis on Natural Resources, with specialties in mining and forestry.
